Planning and Execution for Disaster Response

Instructor: Col. Joseph Contiguglia, MD, MPH&TM, MBA, USAF, MC, CFS

Effective response to a terrorist WMD attack depends, in large part, on the capability of local responding agencies to rapidly focus available assets in accordance with valid operational plans to save lives and mitigate injury to the greatest extent possible. This course proposes a framework for emergency management and response based on the principles of counter-terrorist preparation & incident command leading to the timely marshalling and effective utilization of available assets in accordance with pre-established plans reflecting accepted guidelines and standards within a logistics, personnel and communications infrastructure designed to ensure robust and reliable intervention. The topics covered in this course include:

Learning Objectives

- Identify the action phases in the process for disaster response
- Name prevention activities in the context of potential disaster situations
- Describe the urgencies and constraints which a priority on life saving imposes on disaster response
- Identify and describe critical areas and standards for cooperation between responding agencies
- Describe the infrastructure requirements for adequate preparation
- Explain the importance and implementation of effective follow-through and follow-on
- Describe the process and execution of recovery

Competencies

- Recognize unusual events that might indicate an emergency and describe appropriate action.
